The livingroom of Amsterdam™

WHERE IT ALL STARTED

The story of The Bulldog starts in 1974, in the middle of the Red Light District. When Henk de Vries just turned 24 years old, he inherited his father's sex shop. He tried his best to serve the people who came in for the most bizarre and freaky requests, but pretty soon he was sick and tired of these weird desires. Until one day, he had enough of it and threw the inventory of the sex shop into the canal.

A DOG NAMED JORIS

Armed with a top-notch location, progressive ideas and exceptional intuition, he created a place where everyone is welcome. A place where people can enjoy the privilege of being themselves: The Bulldog coffeeshop, inspired by his dog at that time, a bulldog named Joris. Even the company logo was inspired by Joris: a drawing of Joris' head.

THE LIVING ROOM CONCEPT

When Henk opened The Bulldog coffeeshop (The First, also known as Nr90) it was just a basement with a couple of tables. By looks it was just a living room: people sat at the tables, talking, drinking, playing board and card games. In the beginning the shop was visited mostly by residents of the Red Light District.

THE TERM "COFFEESHOP"

The Bulldog is actually the first coffeeshop there was. That means the term 'coffeeshop' as we know it today for Amsterdam, was invented by Henk. But why did he use the term coffeeshop, while 'coffee' is not what most visitors come for? Henk de Vries answers this question for us:

"I wanted to make the connection with a coffeehouse, in my opinion that was like a living room for neighborhood residents. [...] At the same time I wanted to have an international character to the place, that's how the term 'coffeeshop' was born."

THE BULLDOG™ TODAY

Right now, 40 years later, The Bulldog expanded tremendously. The formula of The Bulldog proved to be a success. Many followed the example and by now the term 'coffeeshop' is recognized in many countries. Through the years, The Bulldog has become a versatile company and the brand has gained more depth. Besides the coffeeshops there are also two cafes, three souvenir shops and a hotel in Amsterdam, a hotel and vacation homes in Canada, a very luxurious resort in Bali.

The Bulldog has four different product lines today: Smoker Products, Seeds, Iced Coffee and Merchandise.
